

MANGLED UNDER FREIGHT TRAIN

Young Railroader Fell While Mounting Pilot and Was Killed Instantly

OCCURED AT MIDNIGHT

Girl Friend Had Written Imploring Him Not to Begin Railroading

Harry Marlowe, aged 23 years, a brakeman on the Big Four railroad, was ground to death under a train in this city last night.

Young Marlowe was making one of his first runs and when the south bound midnight freight train pulled into this city, he climbed down off a front car, and made the run ahead to unlock the switch, near the Francis Bros. factory. It was probably three hundred feet to the switch, where the trainman got off, and he started to ride the cow catcher or pilot, that distance, but in trying to board the moving train his foot slipped and he fell beneath the engine. Fourteen cars passed over his body, and he was mangled almost beyond recognition. The head was cut off, just below the neck, his left arm severed near the trunk of the body, and his entire body bruised and mangled. Death was probably instantaneous.

On some of the papers found in his possession, his address was given as Wabash, Indiana, but in a little note book he had written: "My name is Harry Marlowe, and my address is No. 45 Frazee street, Cleveland, Ohio."

He had a number of letters from girl friends in his pockets, and in one of them the writer implored that he would not take up railroading, as she feared he would be killed. He also had a number of souvenir post cards from young ladies, and the names and addresses of over forty, living in all parts of the country. Several letters were from Zanesville, Ohio, written from a hotel there.

Coroner Willis Coleman was called, having just returned from Manilla, where he was called by the death of Frank Martin, who was also run down by a train.

The body of the unfortunate railroader was removed to the Fred A. Caldwell undertaking establishment, where it was prepared for burial. The family and friends of the deceased have been notified of the young man's death.

THREE FAMILY REUNIONS

The Logans, Blacklidges and Newhouses Met Today

The Rush county fair grounds was the scene of the family reunions of three prominent families of this county today, and although the weather was threatening there were many members of the families present.

The families of Newhouse-Blacklidge and Logans were those who met to shake hands and talk over things of other days and participate in the food laden basket dinners which are always a feature of these meetings.

BIG BATTLE AT KNIGHTSTOWN

Mass Meeting Being Held by
All the Churches and Citizens

SALOONS ARE NOW DOOMED

Judging From the Names Which are Being Placed on Remonstrance Being Circulated

The little city of Knightstown is in one of the greatest temperance battles ever fought in this part of the State, and it looks as though the three saloons there are doomed to go.

On Sunday evening all the churches in the city together with other citizens held mass meeting in the Alhambra opera house for the purpose of agitating the remonstrance spirit, which is now at a high pressure. The meeting was in charge of Rev. Thornburg, of the M. E. church, assisted by the other ministers of the city, and was addressed by Rev. Arthur H. DeLong, of Indianapolis, and Mrs. Dr. E. Colvin, of New York City.

The remonstrance must be filed by next Friday in order to be effective and men and even women were on almost every street corner yesterday, discussing the question which is uppermost in the minds of every citizen of that city.

While the saloon keepers are working hard yet they are losing grounds and have almost given up hopes of conducting their business longer than their licenses now calls for.

RUNAWAY HORSE DOES DAMAGE

John Stark's Horse Became Frightened and Tore up
Two Rigs

The monotony of a dull, stupid day, with the clouds hanging low, was broken this afternoon about 4 o'clock, when a runaway occurred on Main street.

John Stark left his horse and buggy standing in front of Wilson's clothing store, when the animal became frightened and ran north on Main street. In front of Weeks' meat market, sat Mrs. Dora Bitner in a rig, and the runaway horse struck her vehicle, tearing off the shafts and shaking up the occupant of the buggy, who sustained a number of bruises.

In front of John Beale's place, the runaway horse ran up on the sidewalk, breaking the buggy and loosening itself from the wrecked vehicle. The frightened animal continued running north, when Rich Wilson stopped it on the sidewalk in front of the Carmichael home. By this heroic act Mr. Wilson proved himself not only a "starter" of horses but also a "stopper."

MANILLA MAN KILLED BY TRAIN

While Walking on the Track in That Town Last Evening

FAMILY SURVIVES HIM

Man Was Afflicted With Deafness
and Did Not Hear
Train Approaching

Manilla was the scene of a horrible accident last evening, which occurred about 7:30, when Frank Martin, aged 36, a contractor and lumber dealer, was run down by a Pennsylvania train while he was walking along the track.

Mr. Martin was slightly afflicted with deafness and did not hear the approaching train, which was on to him before the engineer could reverse the engine. The unfortunate man's skull was crushed and one leg broken. He was taken to the office of Dr. Barnum, and lived one hour after the accident, but never regained consciousness.

Coroner Coleman was called immediately and had not yet returned when the violent death of the Big Four brakeman occurred in this city. Mr. Martin left a wife and two children. The funeral arrangements are not yet announced.

FATHER WAS A VERY POOR EXAMPLE

Tom Bright Sues Jane Bright
For Divorce and Daughter
Wants to Marry

Thomas P. Bright has brought suit for divorce from his wife, Jane Bright, in the Shelby county courts. The complaint is very short. It alleges that they were married on May 14th, 1883, and lived together until 1898, when they separated and have not since lived as husband and wife. On the very same day that Mr. Bright sued for divorce, their fifteen-year-old daughter applied for marriage license. The groom-to-be was Will Richardson. The father pleaded with his daughter to remain single, and used his own wrecked life as an illustration. She heeded not his entreaties.

Doc Lewis, of Indianapolis, the "King of Raggers," who can make a piano talk in rag time, will officiate at the ivaories at the two public to be given at the Mod hall, Thursday and Friday week.

Caught Seventeen Yesterday
That Made a Good Average—
Last Year's Fishing

And when it comes to catching fish any old kind, but more especially the game and festive bass, do not forget to count in Flem Pea, the King Fisherman. Yesterday he caught 17 bass on lower Flatrock along the Birney Anderson farm, that weighed from one-half pound to two and one-half pounds. The largest measured nineteen inches in length. Mr. Pea fishes with the meat of a crawfish, and has caught 125 nice bass this season, and last year pulled out 365—one for each day in the year—with a hook and line.

OPENING NIGHT OF THE CARNIVAL

Was Attended by Large Crowds
Considering the Threatening
Weather

The Catholic carnival opened last evening for four nights with a good attendance, although the weather was threatening. The carnival has many attractions that are a credit to the management.

The moving picture show was not among the attractions last night, but those in charge are expecting to have one on the grounds this evening. The "Country Store" and "Fishing Pond" are receiving a liberal patronage and "Zelone," the vaudeville attraction, headed by Tom Kelly, is very good for amateur's talent. Mr. Kelly's slight-of-hand performance is very clever, as is his target shooting and the comedy skit of Henry O'Neil and Willie Galaska.

The Rushville concert band which has been secured to play each evening rendered several excellent selections on the platform erected on the north side of the school building.

MAIL BOXES CHANGED

Rural Route Patrons Comply
With Law

An order was issued some time ago that all rural route patrons who did not make their mail boxes comply with the government regulations, would have their mail discontinued. Monday was the last day of grace and as the result many farmers securing their mail via the rural routes out of this city immediately "got busy" and repaired their old boxes or substituted new ones. So far as known, all mail boxes on the routes emerging from Rushville are in good condition and no farmers will lose their service on account of them.

WELCOME OUT FOR HOOSIERS

Indiana Society of New York
Invites Rush County
People Banquets

OBJECT OF THE SOCIETY

Will Redound Honor on the Fairer State in all the Union

Horace B. Hord, secretary of the Indiana Society of New York, writes a letter, inviting the people of Rushville and Rush county, to assist in keeping the society alive by furnishing the names and addresses of Hoosiers now residing in New York City that they might be induced to join and Mr. Hord also extends an invitation to any foot weary tourist from this locality, who were fortunate enough to be at Gotham at any time this winter, when they will hold eight banquets. The banquet hall will be an open forum, not for argument and debate, but to offer and maintain, by reason and logic, any idea considered helpful and advantageous. It will not be the place to cross political swords, but matters of politics are not barred.

The organization was formed not alone for the purpose of keeping alive the love of the State of their nativity, but to present and maintain in the cosmopolitan city of New York, where people from all parts of the globe have assembled with various motives and purposes, an organization truly representative.

It is intended and desired that this organization keep in touch with native Hoosiers who come to New York City for pleasure or profit, with men who think and have something to say, that it may ever maintain its individuality as an Indiana organization, reflecting always in as far as possible the best of Hoosier thought and enterprise, and especially at its annual banquet to hear from those men, who, in commerce, politics and art, uphold and maintain the place of Indiana as second to none in the world.

Editors, professional men, and men in all walks of life, who have something to say, are more than welcome, and will aid in establishing a forum that will redound to the credit and exploit the gifts of the native Hoosier.

ARTHUR STREET REMAINS OPEN

The Declaratory Resolution Adopted by Council Will Check Controversy

COUNCIL'S SHORT SESSION

Frank Catt, Assistant Civil Engineer, Tenders Resignation—Successor Appointed

The city council had a short session last night with all the members on deck.

A declaratory resolution was adopted, which calls for the opening of Arthur street across the C. H. & D. tracks and property. A like resolution was passed some few months ago, but the name of Judson Harmon, receiver of the railroad company was omitted, making the instrument invalid. In view of this, the railroad company took the stand that they had a right to block traffic, and forthwith built a wire fence across the street—facing their property. The same was taken down by the city yesterday morning and the declaratory resolution last night, will put a stop to the controversy and all further action in the matter.

Frank Catt, assistant civil engineer, handed in his resignation and it was accepted by the council. E. D. Payne was appointed to fill the vacancy at the same salary of $65 monthly.

The assessment roll of the Tenth street improvement was approved, and September 3d, was the day set to hear remonstrations from persons interested. The cash bond of Contractor A. R. Herkless was approved, and he was granted, until Nov. 1st to complete the work.

The usual batch of claims were allowed.

Cincinnati's chief industry seems to be that of raising ball players for clubs in other cities.

A Cleveland scientist has discovered an advantage in being tall. The tall man's head is higher above the germs in the streets.

The latest estimates of Kansas wheat crop is 70,000,000 bushels, with dozens of back townships to be heard from where they are supposed to be still raising wheat.

It looks now as if the city of Chicago would secure both the great national conventions next summer, and it must be conceded that few cities are better located for such gatherings or afford more ample accommodation for them.

In his speech at Columbus, last Monday night, Secretary Taft laid down doctrines which were already familiar to the country. His speech was neither brilliant nor startling, but nevertheless important. Logically and with great clearness he discussed the principal problems of today. His principal remarks were directed to the consideration of the railroads of the country. The remainder of his speech was devoted to a dispassionate review of the relation of wealth to the common wealth. In his firm though moderate program Mr. Taft would impose reasonable limitations upon fortunes and equally reasonable regulations upon corporations. He believes in the protection of private property, and to that end would not only prevent its confiscation by the State but would defend it from the inroads of corporate tyrants or malefactors. He believes in a strong government and has enough faith in the integrity of the American people to believe that they can select agents to carry out their will, irrespective of the influence or bribes of the high financiers. He is no pessimist like Mr. Bryan. He believes that the country can be governed honestly—not only honestly and democratically, but efficiently. He has faith in the good sense as well as in the integrity of the American people, and believes that they are able to cope with the problems of corporate control. The same good sense which guides them in railroad legislation, he says, will guide them in the matter of the tariff. He is a revisionist now, as he was a year ago, but with the sanity which is characteristic of him

POLITICAL CHATTER

The Durbin Boom in the Gubernatorial Stakes Assuming Proportions.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 21.—Colonel William T. Durbin was pressed today by several party leaders for a definite statement as to whether or not he is a candidate for governor again. He did not say that he would or would not get into the running, but he is not a candidate now. He indicated, however, that he is thinking over the matter seriously and that there are conditions under which he may decide to ask for another term. The Durbin boom is assuming large proportions. The ex-governor's administration, the Durbin boomers say, stamped him as one of the real business men the state has placed at the head of its affairs, and throughout Indiana there are influential men who are urging him to become a candidate. Congressman James E. Watson of Rushville, another prospective entry in the Republican gubernatorial free-for-all, was at the Claypool hotel last night with several of his friends. He delivered an address in the afternoon at the annual meeting of the Marion county old settlers at Broad Ripple. He is speaking five or six days a week in Indiana. Today he will deliver an address at Attica before the Red Men of northern Indiana. He speaks at Columbia City tomorrow. He is making a quiet canvass for the nomination, but up to this time he has not made a definite public announcement whether or not he is a candidate. He would not make a positive answer one way or the other as to whether he will become an avowed candidate.

Charles R. Jones, chairman of the national committee of prohibition, is in Indianapolis arranging with F. T. McWhirter for a meeting of the national committee in this city some time in November. Mr. McWhirter is the Indiana member of the national executive committee of the Prohibitionist party. At the meeting of the committee the time and place for holding the national Prohibitionist convention will be agreed on. National Chairman Jones is enthusiastic in his prediction of future glories for the Prohibitionists. He maintains that as a matter of self-defense the large cities of the country will some day have to adopt prohibition.

The railroad commission is notifying the railroad companies of its intention does not cry for revision until the country and the Republican party are prepared to undertake the task. That time, he thinks, is not far off. He looks for it to come after the next election, when the schedules which encourage monopoly will be revised in the same spirit in which congress and the administration have sought to deal with other problems of monopoly.

Solomon Guggenheim, of Colorado, who, it is claimed, bought his way into the United States Senate, is suffering from a nightmare in which he sees Mr. Roosevelt as president for life. What Mr. Guggenheim seems to need is a change of diet, with a more generous allowance of brain food.

While most persons approve the action of Judge Landis in regard to the Standard Oil Company, yet there are a good many who look upon the fine as excessive and as intended to attract attention to himself. Yet what he did to the Standard Oil Company was less than what he did to the Furniture Trust and we have yet to see a syllable of complaint concerning the latter. He simply put the Furniture trust out of business as a trust.

The great Kentucky editor and the Nebraska orator each has a faculty of making things interesting, the one because of his way of saying things and the other because of the notoriety he achieved in one speech in which he borrowed from those who said things out of the ordinary. Now that the two are engaged in a discussion, more or less personal, they are no less interesting, but it is hardly wise to expect that any new fact will be developed or any new idea presented.

The discontented men and women of today are the victims of too much prosperity. They need a touch of hard luck to put them in a healthy frame of mind. In the days when people had little and were obliged to work hard for what they had life was appreciated. Pleasures were simple and the home life was wholesome. Luxuries were known to few and contentment was a general condition. Nowadays men and women pass a feverish existence in the pursuit of riches and tire of luxuries as spoiled children disdain toys, when the collection is too numerous. In a way we never grow up, and the restlessness that possesses adults shows itself in the children of modern families.

to begin at once a movement toward the elimination of all dangerous grade crossings. No radical action will be taken by the commission, but it will insist on the railroads doing everything possible from now on to remedy the extremely dangerous crossings. It is the plan of the commissioners to bring the grade crossings of Indiana up to the standard of Massachusetts, where a railroad commission has been working on the problem for several years. W. J. Wood, member of the commission, in a letter to the superintendent of one road, said: "The commission proposes to go on with this work from year to year, getting them continually in better shape until the great loss of life that has taken place at these crossings shall be avoided. We note the difficulties that you labor under and the work you are doing, but we think it will be economy to put these crossings in the best shape you can at present, because as we go further into this work we shall require, whatever views of approaching trains are obstructed by buildings or by topography of ground, especially where the adjacent country is thickly settled, that proper warning signals, including electric bells when necessary, shall be constructed."

Judge B. F. Harness of Kokomo has issued a statement to the public that he is not a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress in the Ninth district. He has been urged to make the race against Congressman Charles B. Landis, but he says that he intends to stick to the law practice.

POLICY UNCHANGED

Fight Against "the Wealth Which Works Iniquity" Is to Be Continued.

PRESIDENT'S WORD IS OUT

In His Pilgrims' Speech Mr. Roosevelt Defines the Administration's Policy Toward Offending Corporations.

"Our Aim Is to Try to Do Something Effective; Our Purpose Is to Stamp Out the Evil," Says He.

Provincetown, Mass., Aug. 21.—The laying of the cornerstone of the Cape Cod Pilgrims' monument here gave President Roosevelt his first opportunity of the summer to break his silence upon public questions, and the forty-minute speech which he delivered from a platform on top of Town Hill was one of vigor and directness upon matters of national importance. The feature of his address was his advocacy of a national incorporation law, and his stand in relation to violators of the law, especially corporations. With emphasis he declared that the administration would not waver in its determination "to punish certain malefactors of great wealth." Continuing, he said:

"There will be no change in the policy we have steadily pursued, no let-up in efforts to secure the honest observance of the law, for I regard this contest as one to determine who shall rule this government, the people through their governmental agents, or a few ruthless and determined men whose wealth make them particularly formidable because they hide behind the breastwork of corporate organization."

"Many men of large wealth have been guilty of conduct which from the moral standpoint is criminal, and their misdeeds are to a peculiar degree reprehensible, because those committing them have no excuse of want, of poverty, of weakness and ignorance to offer as partial atonement. When in addition to moral responsibility these men have a legal responsibility which can be proved so as to impress a judge and jury, then the department will strain every nerve to reach them criminally. Where this is impossible, then it will take whatever action will be most effective under the actual conditions."

"Our aim is to try to do something effective; our purpose is to stamp out the evil; we shall seek to find the most effective device for this purpose, and we shall then use it, whether the device can be found in existing law or must be supplied by legislation. Moreover, when we thus take action against the wealth which works iniquity, we are acting in the interest of every man of property who acts decently and fairly by his fellows; and we are strengthening the hands of those who propose fearlessly to defend property against all unjust attacks. No individual, no corporation, obeying the law has anything to fear from this administration."

The president declared that the government would undertake no action of a vindictive type, and above all, no action which would inflict great or unnecessary suffering upon innocent stockholders, and upon the public as a whole. He said that the government's policy in its ultimate analysis means "a healthy and prosperous expansion of the business activities of honest business men and honest corporations."

At one point President Roosevelt departed for a moment from his address as originally prepared, to remark, "all that I have said as to desirable and undesirable citizens remains true."

The day was noteworthy in the history of Cape Cod. Following the exercises, a banquet was held in the town hall, and later the president was conducted to Odd Fellows hall, where he was introduced to more than 200 Provincetown and Gloucester fishermen. The president spoke to the fishermen, commending their labors and the way in which they performed them.

At the conclusion of his remarks President Roosevelt was driven to the wharf, where he boarded the Mayflower, which sailed at 4 o'clock on her return to Oyster Bay. It is expected that the monument will be completed in about two years.

Drove Out the Operators.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 21.—An armed mob attacked the office of the Postal Telegraph company at Ashfork, Ariz., and broke every window in the building with a rain of bullets. The lives of four of the employees were endangered, but so far as known no one was injured. Ashfork is a small town in Arizona on the Santa Fe and is the chief "repeating" station of the Postal company between Los Angeles and the East. Five men are regularly employed, but three walked out when the strike order was given. One man has since been sent there from San Francisco to join the two operators who remained with the company.

Reported Back for Duty.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 21.—The Indiana state circuit of the Associated Press has resumed the regular leased wire service, both day and night, all the operators reporting back for duty. In the interim of one week the papers on this circuit were served with reports over the commercial lines.

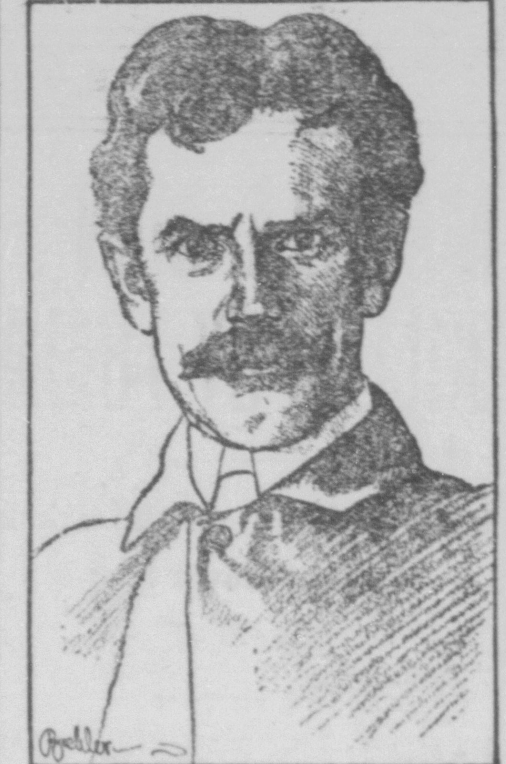

He Kept His Vow.

Delaware, O., Aug. 21.—Dennis Rowan, twenty-five years old, last night kept a vow to shoot Patrolman Charles Ruder and nearly paid a summary penalty at the hands of a mob. He owes his life to Assistant Chief of Police Spaulding, who, after being shot at four times by Rowan, found his way with a black-jack through the clanging crowd into police headquarters. Ruder is in a serious condition.

MIDSUMMER DIVERSION

The President Takes Another Poke at So-Called "Nature Fakers."

New York, Aug. 21.—The "nature fakers" have once more come under the fire of President Roosevelt. He discharges a whole broadside of criticism and ridicule against them in an article written by his own hand, in the current number of a well-known magazine.

The contribution constitutes as vigorously expressed a bit of censure as the president has penned in some time. Particular attention is paid to the Rev. William J. Long, the well-known natural student, as a prominent "faker," the clergyman being scored decisively. President Roosevelt advises a course of barnyard story for the "fakers" who "make such startling discoveries in the wilderness," it being pointed out that such a course would have a very enlightening influence on them.

Want Congressional Investigation.
Chicago, Aug. 21.—Both telegraph companies report themselves today as being able to handle all current business, but at the union headquarters it is asserted with much confidence that the companies are badly crippled. The operating forces of both the Postal and Western Union on the board of trade have been again increased. The strikers have decided to force a congressional investigation of the telegraph companies.

USED CHLOROFORM

Robbers Put Orestes Family to Sleep and Ransack the House.

THEIR BOLD OPERATIONS

Even the Mattresses on Which the Stupefied Family Slept Were Searched by Determined Robbers.

Burglars, After Firing a Fusillade of Shots on the Outside of the House Disappeared.

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 21.—Robbers entered the home of Jasper Spence, at Orestes, eight miles from here, at 2 o'clock in the morning, and after putting the entire family, consisting of the mother, father, three sons and two daughters, under the influence of chloroform, took $69, of which $59 was in a trunk on an upper floor. Ten dollars was between two bedticks on a lower floor, on which slept their daughter lone, eighteen years old. The burglars rolled the young woman over and took the money without awakening her. A son was awakened by the noise of footsteps descending the stairway and called to his mother, who rushed to the stairway, but found her son deathly sick from the fumes of chloroform.

The lighting of a lamp in the Spence home was a signal for a fusillade of shots on the outside of the house. None of the family was made seriously ill from the chloroform, and all awakened after the robbers left the house. The burglars disappeared in the darkness after firing the shots, and all trace of them was lost.

TOWN TORN UP

Terre Haute Excited Over Revelations of London Missionary.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 21.—The Rev. Charles Kean, the London missionary slum worker who spoke at a men's mass meeting Sunday night about what he had found when "sleuthing" in Terre Haute the preceding week, has been denounced by his face in a newspaper office and by the mayor in the latter's office as a liar and the mayor, shaking his fist in the slum worker's face, added that he was a "scoundrel and grafter."

The result is an excited lot of people among all interested officialdom, ministerial union, citizens' league and the wideopen element. It is likely to result in prosecutions for perjury and defamation of character and maybe, if the reform element continues its support of Kean, eventually in an effort to remove Mayor Lyons by impeachment, as was done with his predecessor, Mayor Bidaman, for failure to enforce the laws.

There has been talk among councilmen recently about impeaching Mayor Lyons, but only one councilman so far has said proceedings should be instituted and he is a Democrat, a member of the mayor's own party. J. G. Reading, president of the Manufacturers' club, who took an important part in the impeachment of Bidaman, is associated with Secretary Dodge in defending Kean at the city hall.

Brought Them to Time.

Lebanon, Ind., Aug. 21.—Since the organization of the Good Citizens' League in this city a week ago, with the avowed purpose of driving every saloon in Lebanon out of business by blanketing the entire city, the liquor dealers have come to the conclusion that they will have to put up the strongest fight ever waged here. Every saloon keeper in Lebanon has signed an agreement to assist in every way possible the Good Citizens' League in prosecuting any violations of the liquor laws, and to conduct their places of business in an orderly manner.

Fate of a Greedy Youth.

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 21.—Harry L. Kanter, fourteen years old, ate a large number of peaches and was remonstrated with by his father. The lad remarked, "I'll eat these or die," holding up several fine ones. He ate them, and was shortly in great agony. A physician was summoned, who found the boy had eaten so much fruit that it had swollen in fermentation and burst his stomach. He lived only a few hours.

Pearl Hunters in New Field.

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 21.—Philip Camp, while spending the day on the banks of the Calumet river, interested himself in opening mussel shells, and he uncovered pearls valued at $200. Another fisherman also found a number of pearls, estimated by a local jeweler to be worth $200. As a result, people are flocking to the Calumet river on a pearl-hunting expedition. The river contains millions of mussels.

Morris Leaves No Address.

Bloomington, Ind., Aug. 21.—It is now believed that the prosecution of the criminal cases against the seven men who "whitecapped" Oscar Morris at Ellettsville last May has come to a sudden end by Morris leaving for parts unknown. At least, he cannot now be found, and his friends say he has left the country for good. Whether or not he went of his own accord, is a matter of speculation.

Lost in the Alps.

New York, Aug. 21.—Francis Rea MacMillan, the American violinist, whose genius has attracted attention both in this country and abroad, is reported in cable advices to be lost in the Alps. The violinist is twenty-two years of age, and a native of Marietta, Ohio.

Suicide of Drink-Crazed Father.

Princeton, Ind., Aug. 21.—While crazed with drink John Biel, a well-known farmer, attempted to kill his wife and five children, who fled from the house to safety. He then fired a bullet through his brain, falling dead.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Rushville Citizen Shows How to Cure Them

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary troubles set in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Rushville people, testify to permanent cures.

L. B. Downey, 702 North Sexton St. Rushville, Ind., says:

"Doan's Kidney Pills are all right and I can strongly recommend them for lumbago. I had a terrible lameness in my back that prevented me from turning in bed or rising from a chair quickly. My kidneys were also weak and a disordered condition of the kidney secretions existed. When I learned how positive Doan's Kidney Pills were in curing such difficulties, I got a box of the remedy at F. B. Johnson & Company's drug store. They soon banished the pain and lameness in my back and strengthened my kidneys. I am not troubled any more with an aching in the top and back of my head. I know Doan's Kidney Pills to be a reliable remedy for such troubles."

THE AUTHORITATIVE FALL FASHIONS

Mrs. Osborn, America's Foremost Modiste,
Comments on the Relation of Climate to Styles.

HER PLEA FOR MORE INDIVIDUALITY IN WOMEN'S DRESS

Copyright 1907, The Delineator.

"In thinking of styles today as compared with those of the past," says Mrs. Osborn in The Delineator for September, "when fashions were so fixed, so decided, I have come to the conclusion that there is one paramount difference, one paramount advance, namely: the reason back of changing fashions, the cause of innovations. That cause is the demand for comfort, the demand on the part of women for clothes that shall suit them, not somebody else."

Styles for Autumn markedly confirm this trend. The women are gradually learning, also, that it is much more sensible to wear thinner fabrics in the Fall and Winter, regulating the warmth by having a supply of outer wraps to put on or take off as the temperature demands.

Thinner gowns are now made more possible for the street on account of the appearance of the long coat. This distinctive as well as very useful wrap is likely to become quite the thing. In fact, it is inevitable as a companion to the lighter weight gowns.

"So," continued Mrs. Osborn, "when I say that light-weight dresses should be worn all winter, I add the plea that women will not immediately fly to me with the cry of impracticability. Thin clothes are no more expensive than heavy. They come in shades just as serviceable, and two long coats are sufficient for all weather changes and certainly are not mad extravagance."

It is commendable that the cut of coats is more suitable for general wear than in recent seasons. For example, the fitted back and the distinctly normal waistline. The correct length varies from forty-four to fifty-five inches and for hard wear may be made of English worsted, covert or broadcloth. Only one thing is demanded—the garment must permit a woman to go on the streets warmly dressed without changing her thin gown.

It is not always possible to trace directly the source of a particular style of dress; but in this instance there is no difficulty. We can lay it largely to the climate. Our winters are by no means what they were. The whole scheme of weather seems to have shifted—late spring, summer in Autumn, London rains instead of brisk winter. It has become an art to cope with the modern American climate. This vogue for thin dresses in winter will, no doubt, prove more than a vogue. It is written, written by weather man, that until the seasons swing into some dependable stability, we must dress by the day and not by the calendar.

Even the theories of medical advisers enter into this matter of dress. Physicians now recommend an abundance of fresh air, a toning and toughening of the system by facing all the rigors of climate and of making cold a tonic instead of a menace to health. Women are becoming more and more impressed by this one hygienic principle; clothes must be regulated by the weather no matter at what season of the year.

Thus we are assured upon his fact: you will find no longer any notable difference between the materials for summer and winter. Many at first will call this absurd, crazy perhaps; but time will prove the assertion. Graceful, clinging fabrics, such as chiffon cloths, marquisette, crepe de Chine, the various silks, muslin even, will be found prevalent this winter when supplemented by the long coat.

Common sense is at last becoming operative in the matter of woman's dress. Today's styles are bearing the stamp of it. "It is far more sensible," Mrs. Osborn writes further, "that we should have been governed so long by the calendar, since back of the calendar is the weather. But many people go through life with the two telescoped. When they see October first staring them in the face, they bow to what they accept as the inevitable and buy woolen underwear. I find such people particularly aggravating. And I challenge any class of Workers to meet more of them than does a person in my position. I long since decided that to know a woman's real character, you must make a dress for her."

Although the thin gown is the most radical of the season's fashions, it will not be as conspicuous as its associate, the long coat. This coat as shown in the Osborn models is adaptable to every occasion and may be fashioned of every sort of material—light weight cloths, silks, or of something of more durability.

The long coat, it is hoped, will prove valuable in another connection, that of lessening the use of the tiresome, stereotyped shirt waist. Its prevalence is to be deplored, for strictly it has but two functions—for morning wear and with the short skirt for walking. Women who put them on and wear them all day can never consider themselves correctly dressed. Whole dresses are much more to be preferred.

It is just this long-coat that is going to encourage whole dresses as well as thin dresses; but there is a great danger in this becoming a popular wrap. You know what it is—it is the hackneyed model.

Heaven spare us from a uniform of long coats! There would be no escaping them. You would meet your self walking in several duplicates of yourself every time you strolled up Fifth Avenue or any other street, from Maine to California. It has been so, has it not, with the long-hip coat and the plaited skirt? Whole armies of these products have paced the earth, no regiment of soldiers ever having looked more identically alike.

Now let the long coats take warning from the plaited skirts. Make yours different or die. Remember that these long coats are going to be copied because they will be a pronounced style.

Conspicuous fashions always attract the women with no distinction of her own. So a word to the wise is sufficient. Have your long coat different—or don't have any at all. There are always many modifications that a woman of taste can make that will stamp her wrap with her own individuality.

"Every woman her own designer," continues Mrs. Osborn, "would not be a bad watchword. Think! I say think! think before you buy. Insist upon something different, just different enough to lift you out of the crowd and yet keep you in the line of correct style."

America can never expect to lead in fashions as long as they don't carry personal convictions into their clothes—the men as well as the women. The men put on and take off their straw hats according to the calendar. Abroad a man wears a straw hat way into Autumn if the weather is mild. Such a matter is really personal and not to be determined by the majority, who lack the courage of originality.

We are a young nation and we must learn. Every woman should endeavor earnestly to cultivate distinction in clothes; to take the initiative in freeing herself from the imitations of fashion. Her clothes should reflect herself, her charm, her impulses, her refinement.

"Just one word," concludes Mrs. Osborn, "to those women who accuse me of writing solely from the viewpoint of the rich. Obviously the rich are the people who can afford to experiment with clothes, and it is by watching them that we gain many valuable suggestions. But the primary laws of dress are applicable equally to the rich or poor. Although I am forced to illustrate from the expensive, I never fail to emphasize the simplicity of my art back of its expensive developments."

THE SOLE TOPICS

Discussion in Wall Street Centers on the Roosevelt and Taft Speeches.

New York, Aug. 21.—Considerations of a political character governed yesterday's stock market almost to the exclusion of all other things. Secretary Taft's speech, which Wall Street chose to regard as the "keynote" of the next national campaign, and President Roosevelt's Provincetown address were practically the sole topics of discussion in financial and speculative circles.

There was naturally much conflict of opinion as to the significance of these important utterances. The situation was further complicated by the president's supplementary remarks in which he made direct reference to existing financial conditions and declared with much emphasis that for the remainder of his tenure of office the governmental policy with regard to the prosecution of offending trusts and corporations would be unchanged. Business on the local exchanges was halting and uncertain all through the day, and operations were of a speculative volume. The market became dull on was regarded as a favorable sign. London seemed disturbed at the tone of Secretary Taft's speech, and our securities were lower in that market, where a further drop in consols was recorded. Other continental markets were unsettled, Berlin apparently fearing a further advance in the Bank of England's discount rate on Thursday, which would doubtless be followed by similar action on the part of the Imperial Bank of Germany. The Paris market was somewhat uneasy over latest developments in the Moroccan situation, and Amsterdam and Frankfurt unloaded Americans in London.

The weakest issues in the local market were the traction shares, which went lower than at any time in this particular movement. In fact, Brooklyn Rapid Transit sold at the lowest price in some years, and the Interborough Metropolitan stocks also went to new lows. Concerning the latter, it was a matter of board-room gossip that the dividend on old Metropolitan shares would probably be suspended, with a reduction in the dividend rate of some of the stocks in the subsidiary companies. In fact, it has become a settled conviction that nothing short of complete reorganization can restore confidence to this group of securities. There was a revival of the recent reports that application for a receivership is impending, but that no action will be taken until the public service commission has finished its inquiry.

Obituary.

Mary J. Miller, daughter of Josiah and Lucinda Miller was born in Walker township, Rush county, Ind., April 24, 1837, died Saturday morning July 27th, at 3:30, after a lingering illness of over one year, age 70 years, 3 months and 25 days. She was married to E. W. Veatch Nov. 29th, 1866, thus they lived happily together for over 40 years, and all this time in Walker township and where they now reside. This union was blessed with one son Robert O. Veatch. She united with the Christian Union church at Sell's Chapel March, 1868, and has been a true and consistent follower of her blessed Master till He called her up higher. Her sickness was long and painful, but she did not murmur or complain, but bore her afflictions with patience and Christian fortitude, and seemed ready to live or die just as she

MARY J. VEACH.

Master willed. She leaves behind, a husband, son, his wife and two children, and Mrs. Fern Dearinger whom Mrs. Veatch raised, three brothers, Joseph G. John S. and Wm. S. Miller, and three sisters, Mrs. John Morrison, Mrs. Alfred Hodge, of Walker township and Mrs. J. D. Dearinger, of Carthage, Mo., and many other relatives, friends, and neighbors to mourn her departure. So we say good bye, but not forever. Some time in the "sweet bye and bye" when the dawn of the that eternal day shall break in upon us we shall meet again never to part.

Funeral services conducted by Rev. G. L. Mann, at Sell's Chapel, Sunday, July 28th at 2 p. m. assisted by Rev. D. L. Vandiment, of Greencastle, Ind., and Rev. Layton, of the Baptist church, of Homer. A very large concourse of people assembled to pay the last tribute of respect to the departed.

"Although she sleeps, her memory doth live,
And cheering comfort to her mourners give,
She followed virtue as her truest guide,
Lived as a Christian—as a Christian died."

And so she's gone to worlds above,
Where saints and angels meet,
To realize her Savior's love,
